Deacon's Corner

The feast day of Our Lady of Hope will be celebrated on Monday, January 17. This feast day commemorates the apparition of Our Lady on January 17, 1871, in the town of Pontmain, France. The Blessed Mother appeared in the night sky to two brothers, Eugene and Joseph Barbedette. Two little girls from the village, Francoise Richer and Jeanne Maris LeBosse, also saw her in the sky. The other members of their family and adults from the town were not able to see Our Lady.

The people who had gathered began to pray the Rosary. As they prayed, the children reported that the image began to change: a blue oval frame with four candles appeared around Our Lady and her dress was covered with stars. The parish priest, Father Michel Guerin with the crowd of people, continued to pray the Magnificat and the Litany of Our Lady. Then words appeared beneath the vision in the sky: "God will soon answer your prayer. My Son allows Himself to be moved."

The church investigated and approved this apparition of Our Lady of Hope. A basilica was built in her honor in 1900 in the town, which was entrusted to the oblates of Mary Immaculate. When the Oblates came to the United States, they constructed a shrine for Our Lady of Hope in Lake Champlain, New York. There is also a beautiful Chapel of Our Lady of Hope at the Basilica of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington, D.C.
